Conference on
New Challenges in Monetary Economics

28-29 June 2024

University of Mannheim, Germany

Submission Deadline: 6 pm GMT, 5 February 2024

Call for Papers

The conference covers a broad range of themes around monetary and macro-finance topics. It will bring together recent contributions in this area of research, focusing on studies with a strong theoretical basis and on empirical papers. A non-exclusive list of examples of relevant topics includes:

- Inflation shocks and their consequences
- Supply-side disturbances and structural change
- Monetary and fiscal interactions in the presence of high public debt levels
- Monetary policy implication of the green transition
- The role of firm, product and consumer heterogeneity
- The role of expectations and communication

Fernando Alvarez (University of Chicago) and Yuriy Gorodnichenko (University of California, Berkeley and CEPR) are confirmed invited speakers, and we welcome further relevant submissions.

The conference is organised by Klaus Adam (University of Mannheim and CEPR).

The event is hosted by the University of Mannheim and sponsored by the EABCN and the Collaborative Research Centre TR 224 at the University of Mannheim. Funding is available for travel expenses for academic participants presenting or acting as discussants.

Expenses will be reimbursed according to the standard CEPR travel guidelines. Costs will not be covered for central bank participants.
